THE ROYAL WEDDING.

Nuptial Ceremony of the Earl of Fife and Princess Louise to Take Place To-morrow.

Anniversary of Lundy's Lane—Minister Caron Delivers a Patriotic Speech.

By Postal Telegraph.]

London, July 26.—The royal wedding to-morrow will take place at 12 o'clock at Buckingham Palace chapel. The services will be fully choral and will be solemnized by the Archbishop of Canterbury, assisted by the Dean of Windsor, Rev. Edgar Shephard, sub-dean of chapels royal, the Bishop of London, the rector of Sandringham, the Dean of Westminster, the Bishop of St. Albans. The musical portions of the service will be undertaken by Dr. Bridge of Westminster Abbey, assisted by Mr. Jekyll, organist of the chapel royal, St. James, and the choir of the latter royal chapel.

The Earl of Fife will have as best man his cousin, Mr. Horace Farquhar. The bridesmaids will be Princess Victoria of Wales, Princess Maude of Wales, Countess Feodora Gleychen. Countess Victoria Gleychen, Countess Helen Gleychen, Princess Victoria of Teck, Princess Victoria of Schleswig-Holstein. The whole ceremony will be carried out in what is known as semi-state, owing to the bereavement by loss of the third son of the lord chamberlain, who has been exempted from attendance but all the chief officers of the Queen's household will be present.

The Queen will arrive at Buckingham Palace from Osborne, accompanied by the court, the day preceding the wedding and remain at Buckingham Palace that night. To-morrow at 1:45 the royal family, with the exception of the Prince of Wales and Princess Louise of Wales, will assemble in the love room at Buckingham Palace. The Princess of Wales, with Princesses Victoria and Maude of Wales and Prince Albert Victor and George of Wales and the chief officers of the Prince of Wales household in three state carriages, will drive to Buckingham Palace, shortly before 11:45, from Marlborough House escorted by a field officers escort of the Life Guards. The carriages will be drawn by richly caparisoned horses. The other princesses, who will act as bridesmaids, will be privately driven in the royal carriage to the palace. At 11:45 the grooms with officers of state will leave their apartments in Buckingham Palace for the bow room, where a procession will be formed. The Earl of Fife, with Mr. Horace A. Farquehar, will have arrived at the palace previously to the Queen's procession and will enter Buckingham Palace chapel shortly before noon and members of the royal family will be seated immediately facing the altar. The Prince of Wales with the bride will leave Marlborough House in the state carriage a little before 12 o'clock. His Royal Highness will be escorted by the Life Guards and he will travel by way of St. James' Palace and St. James' Park. The carriage he will use will be of great magnificence, being that which has only been used by the Queen on occasions when she has opened Parliament in person. It has never been used by any of the royal family other than the Queen.

The ceremony of the wedding will be in the supper room in Buckingham Palace to those invited to the wedding. The royal family will breakfast separately in another room with the Queen. The usual toasts will be given and then the Earl of Fife and his bride will drive back to Marlborough House followed by the Princess of Wales and her family and bridesmaids. The bride and bridegroom will in the afternoon drive to Lord Fife's suburban seat at Sheen, where the first portion of the honeymoon will be spent.

A new wedding anthem, "O, Perfect Love," has expressly been composed by Mr. Jos. Barnsby for the royal marriage, and will be included in the services at Buckingham Palace.

CARON'S SPEECH.

Patriotic Utterances of Sir Adolphe at the Lundy Lane Celebration.

Drummondville, Ont., July 26.—Thousands of people attended the celebration of the seventy-fifth anniversary of the battle of Lundy's Lane. Among those present were Sir A. P. Caron, Adam Brown, M. P., and York and Wentworth pioneers in bodies.

After the decoration of graves of heroes who fell in the struggle of 1814, patriotic speeches were delivered by the Minister of Militia and others of the prominent men present and appropriate resolutions also passed. Sir Adolphe promised to do his best to induce the government to aid in the erection of a monument on the battle field.

The prominent feature was a speech by Sir A. P. Caron, who received a great ovation. He said it was with the deepest of gratitude that he accepted the invitation extended him to come here on this historic spot, with its many associations of early days in Canadian history. Although of French descent, he was a Canadian and loved the old British flag that those who were sleeping here defended seventy-five years ago. To-day the same flag floated over the citadel at Quebec, and the French descendants of that province, like himself, know no other flag but that one. They loved their country and their Queen and proved it in time of trouble. Sir Adolphe spoke on the unity that should exist among all classes of Canadians for the general welfare of all, and concluded by stating that he felt just as much at home on the battlefield of Lundy Lane as he did amongst his friends in the cities of Quebec.

ASIATIC CHOLERA.

Ottawa, July 26.—The Department of Agriculture has been apprised of an outbreak of Asiatic cholera in the Philippine Islands. As many as 20 deaths a day are occurring at Manilla. Bills of health of vessels going to the United States report the presence of cholera and our own officials on the Pacific coast have been notified to be on the look out for vessels coming from these ports.

ARCHBISHOP WALSH CONGRATULATED.

Toronto, July 26.—The news of the elevation of Bishop Walsh to the Archbishopric of Toronto, was received with joy by the Roman Catholic clergy of the city. They are unanimous in the belief that a better selection from among the ecclesiastics of the province could not be made. Bishop Walsh is spending a vacation in Montreal. Scores of telegrams were yesterday sent him from all parts of the country, congratulating him on his elevation. The pallium, the insignia of Archbishop, will not arrive from Rome till about one year.

GRANTS TO ROYALTY.

Question in the House—A Strong Opposition Growing Up.

London, July 25.—When Mr. Smith moved the adoption of the report of the special commission on the royalty grants, every eye was directed towards him. He was promptly questioned by members of the opposition as to the present condition of the Queen's finances. They demanded to know what savings the Queen had made out of the allowances already made for the support of the royal family. Mr. Smith declined to reply to these questions, which, he claimed, were entirely irrelevant to the subject in hand. It was not the duty of the sovereign, he said, to provide for the royal family. The government could not believe there existed any important class among the loyal people of the British Empire who grudged to royalty the very moderate provision necessary to maintain its dignity—a dignity which was not alone that of the royal family, but of the Empire as well. If the systems of other civilized countries were examined, it would be found that the English way was by all odds the best, furnishing, as it does, at the moderate expense which the support of the royal family entails, that stability which is so essential to good government, and which obtains for England the respect of every people on the globe.

Labouchere moved his substitute for the committee's report. This substitute is in the form of an address to the Queen, stating, that in the opinion of the house, Her Majesty should provide for her grandchildren out of her present income. He stated that it was the opinion of those who stood with him on this question that the sums already granted to the royal family out of the public treasury were quite sufficient for all proper purposes with which the people had any concern. He ridiculed the statement that the English system was the most economical, and pointed to the great nations across the water, which paid its president a yearly salary of £10,000 as against the £70,000 which the Queen and her family had cost the people of England every year. He was determined to oppose all further grants to the junior royalties. The government was already on record as admitting that large savings had been made out of the allowances heretofore granted to the Queen for her civil list. These savings, he understood, were well invested, and it was true, as it has been stated, that the Queen had out of these savings given various sums to several of her grandchildren. He had no doubt there was enough left to provide for the others. He insisted that the extreme limit which the nation should put upon its bounty to royalty was reached when a proper provision was made for the children of the sovereign. The country ought not to be asked to submit to the burden of support for an inundation of innumerable grandchildren. If it were found that the present wasteful extravagance on the part of the royal family would need to be kept in bounds in the absence of further allowances, he should hardly consider this a calamity. It might become necessary to abolish a horde of useless officials who are now pampered in the Royal households; but who would complain if, for instance, the Queen's Lord Chamberlain were to leave the stableyard, or if her master of the horse were to drop out of sight, with her eight lords-in-waiting and all these useless officials of the households of the Prince of Wales and the other princes and princesses.

Samuel Storey, Liberal member for Cumberland, seconded Mr. Labouchere's amendment.

Gladstone said he was averse to practicing any economy which would result in impairing the dignity or splendor of the crown. At his age, he was glad to say he could look back upon a long career as a representative of that crown with a feeling of unaffected pride. He felt no disposition to criticise those of his friends who differed from him in the treatment of this question, and who were disposed to view it altogether from the standpoint of a cold and calculating ability; but for his own part he was not ashamed to confess that it was impossible to look upon this as purely a matter of pounds, shillings and pence. He was charged with giving way to sentiment. So let it be. The long years which have rolled up a history for the British crown, its achievements, its splendor, its traditions, its dignity, were all a sentiment; but not a sentiment he wished to obliterate. Rather did he wish to see it take a firmer root in the hearts of his countrymen. (Cheers.) He did not wish to see the traditions of the crown forgotten, or its lustre dimmed, and it pained him more than he could express to see this house turned into a market place, when royalty must dicker and haggle for what was rightly its due.

Morley followed Gladstone, and opposed the government's proposals as extravagant grants of former reigns. He said he did not excuse their repetition. He could not support the substitute of Labouchere, because the message which it contemplated sending to the Queen was not such an one as in his opinion ought to be sent, and besides he was desirous of upholding the good traditions which hung about the throne. On Monday, however, he would himself offer an amendment which he hoped would bring the whole subject in its broadest aspect before this house.

QUICK TIME.

The C. P. R. Outstrips the C. P. R. From the Orient to New York.

The local agent of the Canadian Pacific Railway in San Francisco has received a letter from New York, the acts of which will prove highly interesting to the country in general. It is a question of time from Japan to New York. On June 6th last, the steamship Parthia of the C. P. R Oriental line, and the Occidental and Oriental Co.'s steamship Oceanic both left Yokohama. The former was bound for Vancouver, the latter for San Francisco, and each vessel had on board a cargo of tea and silk for New York firms. The Parthia made the quickest trip on record on that occasion, coming from Yokohama in a trifle over twelve days. The silk was forwarded from Vancouver over the C. P. R. with the utmost despatch, reaching New York on June 29th, and the teas the day following. The Oceanic made a quick run across the Pacific, reaching San Francisco on June 20th, and the cargo was delivered in New York on July 1st, so that the longer trip via the C. P. R. was made in two days shorter time. Thus it is demonstrated that besides carrying freight cheaper the C. P. R. can outrival its southern competitor in the matter of time.

The Atlantic Cable.

The details of the direct Canadian-Atlantic cable are announced. Application has been made to the Dominion Government to guarantee the bonds of the company to the extent of half a million dollars. Dobell, of Quebec, who is the chief promoter, has already raised $350,000. The actual length of the cable will be nineteen hundred miles, twelve hundred miles shorter than the New York cable. The shorter cable will give better service. The government has not yet decided what action to take.

A HANDSOME BACKDOWN.

London, July 25.—The Standard, which asserted that Father Convery, of Dunmanway, Ireland, publicly prayed that God would strengthen the hands of the man who killed Inspector Martin, at Gweedore, has decided to apologize and to pay £100 damages.

TRIBUTES TO GLADSTONE.

London, July 25.—There is a grand jubilee to-day at Hawarden, commemorating the 50th anniversary of Gladstone's marriage. The whole United Kingdom sent forth memorials, addresses and other tributes of respect. The Prince of Wales and thousands of dignitaries sent pleasant words and words of commendation. The Queen telegraphed her congratulations from Osborne to the ex-premier and his aged wife. The Prince and Princess of Wales and other members of the royal house sent letters of congratulation, and the Prince of Wales sent a gold inkstand. A portrait of Mr. Gladstone, with his grandson, painted by Millais, was presented by a number of the wives of the Liberal members of parliament. In Hawarden, Gladstone's home, the church bells were kept ringing all day to-day.

COLLISION.

New York, July 26.—During a fog this morning a collision occurred in the East river between the tug boat Burgess and the ferry boat Brooklyn. A wild panic arose among the latters' passengers, men rushing for life-preservers regardless of women, who screamed and fainted in many cases. The bow of the ferry boat struck the tug amidships and the latter sank almost immediately; her crew, however, succeeded in getting aboard the ferry boat and after a time the panic was quelled as it was soon found the ferry boat had sustained no damage.

THE LAW'S DELAY.

New York, July 26.—Lawyer John R. Dunn, who advised his client, Castiere Scott, of Manhatten, to steal $185,000 of the bank's money and afterwards got the greater part of it himself, was taken to Sing Sing this morning to serve out a sentence of 9 years and 6 months. The law's delay has kept him in the Tombs here for a year pending appeals.

THE MISSING AERONAUT.

Detroit, July 26.—The Journal prints a dispatch from Jackson regarding Hogan, the missing aeronaut. Harvey Flower, of Jackson, who has known Hogan from childhood, states that last Thursday in Jackson he talked to him. Hogan requested him to keep quiet for a time. The foregoing information is considered reliable. Two other men claim to have positive knowledge that Hogan is hiding till he recovers from the accident.

THREE WHALING SCHOONERS LOST.

San Francisco, July 26.—News from Ounalaska by the steamer Jeanette confirms the recent report of the loss of the three whaling schooners, A. Hamilton, Otho and Annie. Traces of them have been found in the Arctic, and it is generally believed that they are lost. The vessels carried about sixty officers and men.

EDITOR IN TROUBLE.

Fresno, Cal., July 26.—F. J. Shanklin, one of the proprietors of the Republican, was arrested this morning on a charge of criminal conspiracy preferred by C. B. Horton, an ex-reporter of that paper, who is now connected with the Expositor. A similar warrant is out for John P. Cosgrave, editor of the Republican. The complaint alleges that Shanklin and Cosgrave, in connection with one Alma Jewett, tried to induce Harlon to accept money for not exposing her as a keeper of a house of ill-repute.

AN ARSON.

Quebec, July 26.—For the past two days races have been in progress on the St. Charles race course and disgraceful scenes of disorder and rowdyism are reported in the vicinity. Matters culminated yesterday in the arrest of one woman rider, Madame Maranaite. She applied the whip among the people right and left, some persons receiving ugly cuts on their faces. She gave bail to stand trial.

JACK THE RIPPER.

Well Defined Style of Butchery Favorite Characteristics.

When in his murderous moods Jack the Ripper has been bent all along on killing his victims in that limited district of four or five blocks square within which murders Nos. 1, 2 and 3 have occurred. He has digressed north, east, south and west in order to puzzle the police, and very likely for considerations of personal safety. He lives now or has lived in this crime centre, or at all events he has been a frequenter of it. This conclusion is warranted not only by the fact stated that he seems to gravitate toward it constantly, but also by the intimate acquaintance with its many dark and tortuous passages and by-ways which the murders show him to have. Almost without exception the murders have taken place close to frequented streets, but in dark courts, passages, alleys or rooms, where interruption would be improbable, where anyone approaching could be seen by him and where escape through outlanding by ways was easy. Castle Jacque is a fair sample of the character of all in these particulars. The Kelly woman, No. 7, is a seeming exception. She was killed in a locked room, but this was a retired court without communication with any other room in the building and with a huge door fitted with bolts inside. Taking into consideration that all outcry was prevented in that as in other cases by the slash at the throat, the first danger of detection was even less than if the act had been done in the open air. It is not difficult to believe that the murderer has not only a well-defined style of butchery, a favorite characteristic style it may be termed—but also a distinct preference as to the locality and time. Almost without exception the murders have occurred between one and half-past two o'clock, one or two varying from this by a few minutes only. Experience has shown that the warnings which the police have received signed "Jack Ripper" cannot be disregarded with safety. A number of the warnings have not been prophetic, but several have been followed by a fulfilment of the threats made. The style of mutilation is suggestive. The physician to one of the cases who said that the murderer had an intimate knowledge of anatomy, or at least experience in killing animals, was doubtless right. There are only a few suggestive circumstances connected with this most wonderful as well as most inhuman series of crimes.

DOUBLE LYNCHING.

Jim Averill and Kate Maxwell Swung Off for Maverricking.

Denver, Colo., July 25.—A telegram received to-day announces the lynching at Sweetwater, Wyoming, of Jim Averill and a woman who lived with him as his wife. Averill was postmaster at Sweetwater, which consists simply of a station contiguous to a number of ranches. Averill drafted into the Sweetwater country four years ago, and at once took up a government claim. He was soon joined by a woman, who took a claim adjoining the town of Bortwell. Both were recognised as hard citizens. The woman was one of the most daring riders in the country. She rode, man-fashion, the most vicious brutes with abandon, and in roping cattle could take a place with the average cowboy. For a long time both have been under suspicion as cattle rustlers. They have rapidly been accumulating a herd, and as they come to the country without anything, it was regarded as evidence against them. This year they turned loose twenty-five yearling calves, which completely satisfied the stock men that they were "maverricking," which particular act led to the lynching. A small body of masked men succeeded in getting both to the door. They were captured after a desparate struggle, and after being bound, led some distance away and together strung up to the limb of a tree and the bodies were riddled with bullets. This is the fifth hanging that has taken place in the same section since last spring.

WITHDRAWS ALLEGIANCE

The Jesuit Question Rescued Out to a Reluctant Aberdeen.

London, Ont., July 24.—The Victoria Ont., Warden, Sam Hughes' paper, comes out to-day with a long editorial, illustrated with small caps and italics, withdrawing its allegiance from the government of Sir John A. Macdonald. The cause is the failure of the government to refer the Jesuits' Estates Bill to the Privy Council. The Warden says:

"As our readers know, we never get excited over these questions. We thoroughly understand them, and not being anxious for temporary personal popularity, we stick to hard-pan facts and law. Therefore do we now feel justified in speaking plainly."

The conclusion reached is that Sir John Thompson controls the government, and that Sir John Macdonald is controlled by romanism (with a small r); but the Warden says: "This does not imply any confidence in the Reform leaders, for Rome has owned them, body and soul for Rome has owned them, body and soul and breeches, for many a day."

Finally Mr. Hughes says that he is neither pleased nor satisfied with the explanations of the member for South Victoria as to his vote on the Jesuit bill.

FIRE IN SACRAMENTO.

All of Chinatown Destroyed, at a Loss of $10,000.

The entire Chinatown district in Sacramento, consisting of forty wooden buildings, mainly rookeries, burned at 4 o'clock Wednesday morning. Owing to the location of the buildings in proximity to the switching yards of the Southern Pacific railroad, which was filled with loaded cars, the fire department was unable to do any effective work, and all the buildings and contents were destroyed. It is believed that no lives were lost, though many Chinese had narrow escapes. The loss on the buildings will not exceed $10,000. There is no insurance.

The Old Council Chambers.

The old wooden building at the corner of Broad street and Trounce alley are being removed, to make room for Mr. Musgrave's two story brick block. These venerable walls that once looked down in pride on the first efforts of a budding city and performed important services in their day are being ruthlessly pulled asunder that they may not hinder the march of progress. The building on the corner of Broad and Trounce was among the first in the city, and for a time gave the proprietor pride in its proportions. It was considered quite a building when finished. At one time it contained the council chamber, police court and municipal offices, its services having always been many and varied. It was in this building that the city fathers considered questions affecting the city's welfare, about the years 1864-65-66, after which they removed to a building at the corner of Government and Brought'on streets, (since torn down) where the building of the new city hall was decided upon and the memorable civic fight connected with it took place. The non-progressive element, the conservatives, were then much stronger than they are now, and the conflict which took place before an old wooden hut could be changed for a fine city hall was naturally a hard one. There were people in those days willing to see what the city was going to go up to, instead of making it what it should be, just like there are to-day. But they go under and the new structures everywhere are evidences of it.

Kingston, July 26.—Mrs. Wm. Martin, a widow, had a savage encounter with a burglar who entered her residence last night through a back window. She was severely beaten over the head with the butt end of a pistol in the hands of the robber. Marshall C. THE JAP WON.

Result of Last Night's Wrestling Match in Seattle.

Special to THE TIMES.]

Seattle, July 26.—The much talked of wrestling match between W. H. Quinn, the champion heavy-weight of the Pacific coast, and Matsada Sorakichi, champion middle-weight of the world, took place at Turn Hall last evening. Though each won a fall, Quinn the first and Sorakichi the second, the match was awarded to the latter owing to the fact that the tall man was unable to come to time. In the last fall Quinn struck his head heavily on the stage receiving injuries so severe that he was unable to come to time. Pietro Areas, the Italian, who met an inglorious defeat at the hands of Peter Schumaker several months has since issued a manifesto in which he offers to wrestle Matsada Sorakichi in Greco Roman style two weeks after the signing of articles for $300 a side. At present Areas is wrestling with the brushes and blacking in a Tacoma bootblack stand.

SEWERAGE.

Scarcely has the sound of the counting of the ballots passed away by which the property holders of this city voted a snug sum of money for needed improvements, than we are told that soon again will they be invited to settle by the same procedure the question of sewerage vs. no sewerage. We are not to presume that the proposition will be negatived. This city is full of bad smells, and sewage water trickles in the little ditches which run parallel with the sidewalks. Such sights are not alone offensive to the smell but offensive to the sight, and they suggest to one who has any knowledge of the bacteria which are supposed to be generated from such sources that the city some day will have to rise up like Port Townsend and indignantly deny that typhoid fever is epidemic. This should be, and probably is, the healthiest city of its size on the coast, if not on the continent. The winter rainfall carries away the filthy debris which accumlates during the summer, and the summer's heat, tempered by the sea, instead of debilitating has a bracing effect. If climate has anything to do with producing of fevers and diphtheria, this city should be utterly free from all such complaints. The climate here is as perfect as needs be for the purposes of health. But while nature performs the functions of a scavenger for this city, the limit of its capacity in this respect is about reached. Increase the population by a few thousand and nature will have more than it can do. It will have to be assisted. Dish water stagnant on our streets, and exhalations from wooden drains will produce disease. In respect to effective sewerage the taxpayers of Victoria can scarcely be too prodigal of expense.

THE WORLD AND GARTH.

That "rare and radiant maiden," whose alias is GARTH GRAFTON seems, to have created a profound impression on the Vancouver World's heart. The "sad, sad city by the straits," to the World is a phrase in which Graftonian sweetness is highly concentrated, and doubtless only that the alleged author of it is said to have found her affinity in a saddle complexioned Jap, the next steamer to the Orient would carry on its passenger list the cognomen of somebody closely identified with Vancouver journalism. That, however, the World should make GARTH'S utterances the vehicle of malicious flings at Victoria is one of those things which no fellow can understand, unless it is that it is forced to do so from the sterility of its own intellectual resources. It has become so habituated to the appropriation of the ideas of others that nothing nor anybody is too sacred for it to steal from. Since GARTH lays so close to the World's heart, we dislike to say anything which would interrupt the course of "love's young dream," but we are bound to remark, nevertheless, that the literary Dulcina of our contemporary is a drug on the market. To pass on from the World's "mash" to matters political, we shall say that so soon as the occasion calls, there will be no difficulty in finding timber out of which to "manufacture a cabinet." We should very much dislike to libel this province by unequivocally declaring, as does the World, that timber of that kind is not to be had. The servile spirit which prompts such language while excusable in an individual, is simply unpardonable in a journal. Even the present cabinet, warped and shrivelled as it is, is broader in its views than the organs which so blindly support it.

RELIGIOUS INSTRUCTION IN SCHOOLS.

Cardinal GIBBONS and the Rev. Dr. THOMAS HILL have come out in articles favoring religious teaching in the public schools. Cardinal GIBBONS holds that "religious and secular training cannot be divorced without inflicting a fatal wound upon the soul," while the Rev. Dr. HILL says that "public schools with compulsory attendance are an essential adjunct of a republican government, and whatever may be the theoretical relation of religion and morals it is practically true that children can be kept pure, truthful and honorable in no way so effectually as by cultivating their natural reverent sense of religious sanctions." Dr. HILL also agrees with Cardinal GIBBONS "that religious and secular instruction should be combined, but they drift apart when the priest declares the denominational school is the best place for the operation of this principle." This is the sticking point, the denominational school, and it is on this point alone that religionists of whatever creed will be opposed by all men who without being irreligious are the reverse of orthodox. "Religious instruction is authority, secular instruction is demonstration and verification." Religious truths appeal to the heart, secular truths appeal to the head. Those who do not regard any church as an infallible guide in spiritual matters, and of this class of people there are a legion, will scarcely agree that it is desirable, in conjunction with secular teaching, the child should be given a denominational bias. It is held that denominational bias is the present element of discord in politics, and that unless it can be eliminated, it must sooner or later result in overt acts of violence. But the feature of the public school question which most interests us is this: If schools may be created for the express purpose of turning out full-fledged Protestants and Catholics, what is there to prevent schools for the manufacture of Mahommedans and worshippers of the sun? If the public school fund may be appropriated for the express purpose of creating a Presbyterian or a Jesuit, why may not the Chinese demand that they shall have a school which shall embody in its curriculum the worship of Joss? This country interferes with no man's predilections for religious worship, and it cannot, therefore, concede special privileges to one church and ignore the claims of another. The Mahommedan has his conscience to appease the same as a Christian, and the government cannot afford to make invidious distinctions between religious denominations. On the whole we do not see how the government can concede to the demands of any church in the matter of religious instruction in the public school without setting a precedent which the churches themselves would find it convenient to repudiate.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

English capitalists at present time hold upward of £150,000,000 worth of American railway bonds, which are yielding an annual average income of 4½ per cent. Besides this another £100,000,000 of ordinary railway shares are held, the income from which is subject to considerable fluctuation.

The Russian army is being provided with a new rifle of immense range and penetrative power. Tests show that at a distance of 6000 feet bullets from this rifle pass through three one inch boards placed ten feet apart. The weapon is not provided with a magazine, but is a breech-loader of great simplicity, which can be discharged and reloaded with the utmost rapidity.

A company was recently formed in England for the purpose of recovering the treasure supposed to be contained in the hulks of the French vessels lost in the battle of the Nile. These vessels have lain for years where they sank without molestation, but now that this movement is on foot as described, the French press has worked itself into a fury on the subject and indulges in such epithets in connection therewith as "the consummation of a sacrilege," "a deadly insult to the French flag," etc. In the meantime the preparations of the company go quietly on.

The Globe's account of the Orangemen's Twelfth of July celebration at Toronto contains the following: "A green flag was floating proudly on Duchess street yesterday. A Young Briton's band came along and the members of it, seeing the flag, surrounded the tree. A young man, decorated with orange and blue, climbed the tree, seized the flag, brought it down and then set fire to it, amid the cheers of the bandsmen and several on lookers." Noble action! The young hero, who covered himself with glory, and pulled down a harmless bit of buntin, should have his name enrolled just below him of glorious memory. Could bravery go further?

Another invasion of British capital is announced, and this time in the whiskey field. Having obtained control of immense brewing interests, and corralled all of Detroit's brickyards, it now proposes to manufacture whiskey for Chicago's consumption. This last deal involves the purchase of all the land and buildings belonging to the Wahl Brothers, Blue Island, for $150,000. The syndicate will immediately proceed to construct additions to the present buildings and convert the big brickyard into a model distillery equal to any in the west. The newcomers will not join the Whiskey Trust and a lively war between English and American capital will be the result.

The Evolution of Tall Men.

In a lecture delivered at the Royal Institute by Professor Flower on the "Pigmy Races of Men," he referred to the curious fact that the "tallest and shortest races in Europe are respectively the Norwegians and the Lapps, living in almost the same region. In Africa, also, the diminutive Bushmen and the tallest race of the country, the Kaffirs, are close neighbors." These facts indicate that climate, soil and other physical conditions have but small influence on human stature, and suggest the question whether it is due to social or moral agency. The comparative history of the Lapps and Norwegians indicates that it may be so. The Vikings were always a fighting race; the Lapps certainly are, and so far as we know, always have been, an exceptionally peaceful people, and the Esquimaux, with whom they are so nearly connected, are the same. The Lapps live on the snowfields of Norway, and the Esquimaux on the bitterest parts of the arctic regions, just the places to which the weakest would be driven by conquerors who have appropriated the more fertile regions. The consequent hardship and semi-starvation would probably stunt the growth of the weaker people, while, on the other hand, the conquering warlike race in the days of hand to hand fighting with outsiders, and struggling for chieftainship would be continually killing off the feeble, and multiplying the big men by the "survival of the fittest" for such conditions of mutual murder striving.—Gentleman's Magazine.

Dr. von Bulow was recently asked to conduct the performance of an operetta which he considered worthless. He declined, but went to the show and occupied a conspicuous seat. What rendered him more conspicuous was the fact that he was attired in the deepest mourning. "That stuff," he said, meaning the operetta, "is being buried, and I am attending its funeral."

"Did you know that ants would make lemonade?" asked a grocer the other day. "They will, for I have seen them do it several times. The other day I left a slice of lemon on the counter, and there happened to be some sugar not far off, and directly I noticed the ants carrying the sugar to the lemon juice. I thought it was rather queer as well as cute, and to test the matter have tried it several times by putting a piece of lemon on the counter and placing some sugar near by, and the ants never fail to carry the sugar to the lemon. What do you think of that now? It is an absolute fact."

CITY AND PROVINCE.

—Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator has no equal for destroying worms in children and adults. See that you get the genuine when purchasing.

—Thos. Sabin, of Eglington, says: "I have removed ten corns from my feet with Holloway's Corn Cure." Reader, go thou and do likewise.

—There is comfort in store for persons troubled with lame back, rheumatic pains, corns or bunions, who commence without delay, a course of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, followed up systematically until relief is obtained.

—F. Burrows, of Wilkesport, writes that he was cured of a very dangerous case of inflammation of the lungs, solely by the use of five bottles of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil. Feels great pleasure in recommending it to the public, as he had proved it (for many of the diseases it mentions to cure) through his friends, and in nearly every instance it was effectual.

—THE LAWS OF THE MEDES AND PERSIANS were not more immutable than those of nature. If we transgress them we suffer. Sometimes, however, we break them inadvertently. Damages frequently take the form of Dyspepsia, Constipation and Biliousness, which can be easily repaired with Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery and Dyspeptic Cure, the Great Blood Purifier and renovator of the system.

—A lady from Syracuse writes: "For about seven years before taking Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery and Dyspepsia Cure, I suffered from a complaint very prevalent with our sex. I was unable to walk any distance or stand on my feet for more than a few minutes at a time without feeling exhausted, but now I am thankful to say, I can walk two miles without feeling the least inconvenience." For Female Complaints it has no equal.

The Power that Moves the World

FIRST ANNUAL TOUR

—OF—

D. McLENNAN

—OF—

SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.

THIS WONDERFUL MASTER OF THE Healing Art has arrived in the city, where he intends to remain for a short time, to cure the sick and afflicted of this vicinity. He comes to us laden with testimonials from the leading citizens of California and the Sound. In San Francisco he has practiced for the past sixteen years, and the authenticated reports of some of his cures seem nothing short of miraculous. He uses no medicine and perfects his cures mostly by the WONDERFUL POWER OF MAGNETISM, the gift of but few men on earth. This is the only method of treatment that restores the life-giving principle, magnetism, to the system, thereby increasing the vital powers and electrifying the nervous system, sending the blood coursing and bounding through the veins, withdrawing and allaying in a few minutes all pains and aches from whatever source.

The diseases which yield most readily to the curative agency of this method, as practiced by McLennan, are: Asthma, Bronchitis, Consumption, Deafness, Eruptions, Gravel, Paralysis, Loss of Voice, Wakefulness, Diarrhœa, Dropsy, Fits, Piles, Scrofula, Swellings, Wens, Spinal Complaints, Cold Feet and Hands, Biliousness, Contracted Limbs, Diseased Kidneys, Erysipelas, Nervous Depressions, St. Vitus's Dance, Weak and Failing Limbs, Mental Depressions, Diseases of the Brain, Dyspepsia, Diabetes, Stricture, Impotency, Tape Worm, Carbuncles, Costiveness, Palpitation of the Heart, Liver Complaint, seminal Weakness, Falling of the Womb, Catarrh, Heart Disease, Fever Sores, Lameness, Rheumatism, Swollen Joints, Weak Lungs, Gout, Goitre, Coughs, Diseases of the Eyes, Neuralgia, Tumors, Tetters, Cancers, White Swellings, Leucorrhœa, Ague and Fever, Milk Leg, etc.

FROM CARIBOO.

Mining Information—State of the Crops—Politics and Mosquitoes.

A correspondent writing from Cariboo says: Business is extremely dull and politics quiet, although rumor says that candidates will be as plentiful as mosquitoes at the next general election. There are ten or twelve aspirants in Barkerville already.

The Black Jack Company still keeps running its one-stamp mill, crushing about three tons in twenty-four hours. A pretty fair looking amalgam is taken from the plates, but as none of it has yet been retorted the amount of free gold to the ton is not known. They had 20 to 25 tons of concentrated sulphurets which was being hauled to the government works about 2½ miles below the ledge.

The Wilkenson, Proserpine, Lord Dufferin, and one or two other ledges, are getting rock to the works, and now as the concentrating machine has been placed in position, the miners are waiting with patience the result.

The Quesnelle Co., Hixon Creek, intend getting a few tons packed to Barkerville to be tested just as soon as the government works have proved that the concentrations can be successfully worked, and an average per centage of assay value saved. If the return from the Hixon ore is satisfactory, crushing will be commenced early this fall and it is expected the mill will be kept steadily at work in future.

The weather for the last few weeks has been intensely hot, running from 80° to 90° and sometimes 100° in the shade. Haying is in full swing with an average crop. Cereals are going to be below an average owing to the great heat and absence of rain which is required after the grain is out in head to make the kernels plump and heavy. Vegetables will be an average crop.

The H. B. Co., has decided to help the struggling farmers by buying and shipping a pretty large quantity of flour from Quesnelle to their northern trading posts. Something over 180,000 lbs. have already been sent forward. It is to be hoped the company will keep on in this good work and buy from the producers of British Columbia.

CLINTON MONOPOLIZED.

To the Editor of The Times:

Sir,—The present is an age of wonders and progress, not only in arts and science, but in the fundamental advancements of all mechanical contrivances. Some are thrown into this world rich; others are born naturally poor. Among such are men of learning, wisdom and knowledge—often of honest and upright minds—men who are not only willing to assist themselves, but too add as well in the development of the world at large. There are others who may be designated as an insipid class of people, full of schemes and intentional fraudulents. It will be remembered last year a vacancy occurred in the house of commons, owing to the appointment of Mr. James Reid as a senator. A proclamation was issued for an election. Mr. McLeese, of Soda Creek, Mr. Rogers, of Barkerville, and Frank Barnard, of Victoria, came in the field to contest for supremacy. Mr. Barnard was elected, being supported by the Fraser river people. The Clinton people did not support Mr. Barnard; they had well defined reasons for not doing so. It is said, "'Tis folly to be wise where ignorance is bliss." So here it comes in play. Through the influence of Mr. Barnard in the house of commons, there is in every probability going to be a change in the mail system at Clinton, the stage arriving from Ashcroft at Clinton—here it dumps the Clinton mail and continues on 36 miles further—on to a wilderness where there is nothing but forest, the fir tree and the pine. This forsaken place is owned by the British Columbia Express Company. The Cariboo and Ashcroft stages connect at Clinton. But here the Cariboo stage comes down. There are letters of importance that may require answering, but letters cannot be answered till the next following mail, a detention of fully a week. Some party, or individuals, up the Cariboo road may have a toothache or some other ache, and in all these cases he is compelled to order medicines that will relieve him; but the order cannot be filled at Clinton until a week after. There is a doctor stationed at Clinton, and he only receives a small recompense from the government. What an agonizing system, all adopted by the influence of a company, simply to even up on the Clinton people, drive their stages to the 36-Mile House, owned by that company. The Clinton people did not vote for Barnard and he gave them sour milk as a recompense. Some audacious man on the road tried to "get up" a petition, but was told by others, "No use, the express company will not buy our grain; they will not freight our butter." What can the people do? Simply abide and bow to the B. C. Express Co. The company's agent acts as telegraph operator at Ashcroft, and if a teamster telegraphs to Ashcroft the amount for which he would haul or deliver freight to such and such a point, the agent at Ashcroft knows about it.

A Bull Puncher.

An Editor's Troubles.

A French journalist of San Francisco, named Leon Deshayes, otherwise known as "Barra," is supposed to be a fugitive from the law and at present in this city. He was under bonds to appear in the San Francisco court on a charge of libel, but failed to do so and his bondsmen say he has left for good. He left a wife behind in his flight to sunny Victoria.

Gladstone in Debate.

The personal peculiarities of English statesmen are often amusing. Of late years Mr. Gladstone has developed an astonishing way of emphasizing his remarks by assaulting an unoffending brass-bound box on the table of the house. To reach it requires no little effort, but for all that the "grand old man" is not to be denied the pleasure of hammering that box. Trembling in every nerve with intensity of conviction, and entirely regardless of the pain that must follow, he stretches across the sea of blue books and brings down his clenched fist on the lid with all his force when he wishes to emphasize the climax of his speech. When he is excited he stands a pace back from the table with feet spread out fanwise, and beats one hand upon the other for several moments, turning round every now and then to address his own followers. Of course his voice is not what it was, but by reserving it and by a discreet habit of never sitting out a debate he has husbanded a strength that puts many of his younger colleagues to shame. On great occasions he invariably arms himself with a phial of egg-nog, which he drinks at convenient intervals, to the infinite diversion of an astonished gallery. Unlike Lord Beaconsfield, who was always noted for his dandified get up, Mr. Gladstone is rather careless about his attire, but he seldom appears without a pink rose in his buttonhole.

The New York World of the 16th inst. contains the following:

"An important meeting was held tonight at the Star and Garter Hotel, Richmond, for the purpose of arranging the details of the O'Connor-Searle race. It was decided to fix the stakes at $2,500 a side and a one thousand dollar challenge cup. The match is to be rowed on September 9. The starting question brought objections from the Canadian, who wanted the umpire to start the men by a pistol shot instead of the competitors starting themselves. Eventually the matter was arranged and O'Connor conceded the point. Searle also objected to the final clause, which allowed the umpire to postpone the race in the event of fog or of rough weather. After a long discussion Searle waived the point. In the betting room Searle was a strong favorite."

Walter Laycock, of Sydney, has arrived in England with his backer, Samuel Allen, and the latter is prepared to bet $25,000 that Searle will defeat O'Connor when they meet. These Australians are high rollers and no mistake. Laycock is willing to row any man in the world bar Searle and O'Connor.

HOOPS.

How Shaved Hoops Are Made in England.

As soon as the cutters have cleared a sufficient space, the hoop-shed, which is to be the center of several months' work, is begun. This edifice is not built under the influence of any capricious inspirations; its lines have been handed down for centuries, from hoop-shaver to hoop-shaver, and its general form may be as surely predicted as that of the cell of the wild bee. Its framework is neatly put together with fork-ended ash-poles, and the few requisite fastenings are made with bent withes. The long, open side of the shed faces the southwest; the two sides toward the cutting winds of the north and north-east are roughly closed in with fagot-wood. The roofing is a work of time. At first there is only the open framework; but as hoop-shavings accumulate they are cast upon it. In this way it may be some weeks before the roof has any pretension to being water-tight. As we approach the hoop-shed, the low sunshine of a winter morning lights up the loose-heaped roof of shavings and the gray-greenness of the oak-poles that are left standing here and there, whilst some slender pillars of birch shine like white metal against the shadowiness of the ravine behind them. The woodland workshop, with all that leans against it and lies about it, has a fine intricacy of detail that makes it a capital subject for photography. Standing in the three bays of the open side are three of the rude, yet sufficient, engines upon which hoops are shaved. Each of these consists of a small slanted beam, the "shaving board," so poised as to be easily movable, the slope being regulated by the hoop-shaver's knee at the one end and a weight hung from the other. Faithful to his primitive ways, the hoop-shaver does not use a metal weight for his counterpois; he gets him a big stone or heavy piece of oak-stub, bends a withe about it, and his need is supplied. The three occupants of the shed look cheerful as we glance in upon them round the closed end. They are some of the few rural laborers who are able to count upon a winter's work. Just now the boy is splitting, the ancient is trimming, and the chief shaver whistles as he brings his blade down a strip of hazel with a hiss. About these rugged sylvan figures and their sylvan shed there floats the wholesome sappy smell that the green wood gives out as it is shaved or rent. Many protective "hulls" are necessary to this handicraft. The two who are using adzes wear leather gloves; and each of the three has a "side-patch" of leather on his left side, a laced half-sleeve of leather on his left arm, and over-knee leggins of sheepskin. The ancient grows chatty, and it is with a dull twinkle in his eye that he tells how plentiful fur and feather are on these lands, and how no known poacher can hope to get work as a hoop-shaver.

A great deal of copsewood that falls before the billhook is not suitable for hoops. Alder is in this category, and its larger stems go to the "oymakers, while the smaller ones are made into heads for hay-rakes. Beech and white-beams, which are abundant on chalky soils, are also rejected. Spindle-wood, which is nowhere plentiful, is reserved for skewers; but the rural skewer trade is no longer what it was. "Branchy" pieces and the rough sprayed tops are sorted into "pea-boughs" and fagot-wood for domestic use and for the lime-kiln. Of the many woods available for hoops, hazel is held in the highest repute, and oak ranks next. The various willows, ash, Spanish chestnut, and wild cherry are also valuable. Even the wild and guelder rose, or "white dog-wood" as it is called in Surrey, comes under the hoop-shave. The largest size of hoop that is commonly made is fourteen feet long, and between that and the smallest, two feet in length, there are several intermediate sizes. The stems are trimmed with an adze, and the pieces taken from the ends form part of the "offal" that is the hoop-shaver's perquisite. It is strange how closely some of these smooth young stems mimic the glister of the blind-worm and the diapers of the snake. The next process is the halving or quartering longwise, which is done by an undulating motion of the adze, an operation that demands considerable skill. This splitting is most easily done when the wood has been cut for two or three months. At the outset of a severe frost this part of the work is interrupted, but after a week's continuous freezing the frost "dries out" of the wood, and it becomes workable.

The split pieces are now ready for the actual shaving. The long-bladed hoop-shave, with the double handle, is generally of local manufacture; some are made by the country blacksmith, others by south-country makers, whose reputation has been handed down from the days of Wealden iron. The shaver, with a few long sweeps of this implement, quickly shaves down his raw material into supple hoops with one side (on which is the bark) slightly curved, and the other side flat. Hoops were formerly shaved on both sides, but the consumers now prefer to have the barked side left intact. The finished hoops are put up in close bundles—sixty going to a bundle of the longest, and 240 to a bundle of the shortest kind. Most of the hoops are sent to London, where, after due soaking, they are used for boxes, tea-chests and packages of various descriptions, as well as for hogsheads and rough casks. In the neighborhood of the docks or of Covent Garden one may study almost all the various purposes they serve. But in many cases where hoops were formerly employed they have been superseded by hoop-iron.—St. James' Gazette.

The proposed capital of the International Salt Trust is $20,000,000, of which British capitalists are to hold $5,000,000.

—Winnipeg Free Press: While at Victoria Sir Somers had an interview with the British Columbia government and the executive of the Victoria Board of Trade, and both bodies promised to lend all the aid they could to make the British Columbia court worthy of the province.

—Martin, the man who murdered C. C. Grant for his money, in a hotel in Tacoma last week, was captured while en route on a train to Portland. He would not acknowledge his guilt further than that he was the man wanted. Considerable of the money he obtained from the body of the murdered man was found in his possession.

Forest Fires.

On Tuesday morning the mail carrier between Alberni could not make headway through the mass of timber that had fallen across the road and so procured three men to cut some kind of a trail sufficient for himself and horses to pass through. He was unable to start from Alberni until 12 o'clock instead of, as usual, 3 a. m. Men are still working on the road endeavoring to make it passable. Heavy forest fires are also reported burning on the mainland and along the Sound, interfering with the telegraph.

Arrived.

Bass XXXX Ale (Lamb's Wool) at the Occidental Hotel bar. *

Marine.

The steamers Elisa and Vesper have been undergoing thorough overhauling at the Victoria Machinery Depot.

Senator McDonald.

Senator McDonald, of Toronto, will preach in St. Andrews' church (Presbyterian) on Sunday evening next.

Leg Broken.

A young man employed on Parker's ranch, Rocky Point, was taken to the Royal Hospital a few days ago suffering from a broken leg below the knee. The accident happened on Sunday last, when he was thrown from a horse, with the misfortune as above stated. He is getting along as well as could be wished.

A Steel Tug.

The Victoria Machinery Depot is at present putting up for Messrs. Ewen & Co., of New Westminster, a composite tug. The frames are of galvanized steel and came from Liverpool on the ship Doris Brodersen. The engines are triple expansion and have all the latest improvements. This is the first steamer of the kind built in Victoria.

The Reason Why.

The steamer Maude, which was to have left for Alberni a few days ago, was sent up to Vancouver instead and loaded a quantity of heavy material there for the motor railway to be constructed at Port Townsend, which was brought from the east over the C. P. R. On her return she will leave for Alberni, which should be not later than Monday.

Powder Goes.

There is little powder at present stored within the city limits, the decision of the provincial court a few days ago affecting the matter considerably. Messrs. Hall & Goepel have cleaned out their magazine, selling the stock, about 300 boxes, to Dunsmuir & Sons. The tug Pilot this morning took on board the contents of the magazine near the outer wharf and left with it later on for Nanaimo.

A Settler's Grievance.

A communication was received this morning from a resident of Millstream, complaining about the impassibility of the government roads. There are six settlers on Millstream, the writer states, paying taxes to the government, and the road from their farms is little better than a trail made by cattle and deer. The Chief Commissioner should take a drive through that section with the representative from Esquimalt.

Death.

At the Royal Hospital last night, Wilfred Lambert, a native of Norwich, Ont., died at the early age of 29 years. The deceased had been a sufferer from consumption for some time past and had travelled through the length and breadth of the province seeking relief. He eventually sought it here under advice, but was too far gone and succumbed peacefully. The funeral will take place at 2 o'clock to-morrow afternoon from the hospital.

Direct Steamers.

The steamer Michigan will, commencing August 2nd, make direct trips between Portland and this city and return, without calling on the Sound. The delays of late in the arrival of steamers on this route has been caused by exceedingly heavy freight for Sound ports. Over 1000 tons were offered above the carrying capacity of the steamers, and the Willamette has been chartered for one trip to Tacoma and Seattle. A direct steamer to this port is needed.

The Provincial Gaol.

The provincial gaol, Topaze avenue, contains 58 prisoners, and the health of the lot is excellent. Amongst the 58 inmates are six Chinese and three Indians, the balance being whites. There has been a noticeable falling off in Chinese prisoners during the past year, for at this time last year there were twenty Chinese in durance vile. The cause of this decrease is ascribed to Chinamen becoming beautifully less in the province. On the other hand an increase of white prisoners has occurred.

Rev. Dr. Levy's Visit.

The Rev. M. S. Levi, minister of the First Hebrew Congregation of Oakland, Cala., has been invited to occupy the pulpit at the Synagogue of this city for this evening, and has kindly accepted the same. The subject has not been announced, but a great treat is in store for the people of this city, the reverend gentleman having the reputation of being both eloquent and scholarly. The services will commence at 7:30 at the Synagogue, corner of Pandora and Blanchard streets, this evening. The public are cordially invited.

Should Always be Verified.

The Nanaimo Courier reads the Free Press, of the same city, a lecture about publishing "vague unverified reports" which it is observed, "should be abhorred by all newspaper editors." On the same page of the same issue an item is copied from our morning contemporary describing an accident to a "Mrs. Johnson" at the Gorge Hotel which accident never occurred. In the words of the Courier itself "Journalists should be very cautious about accepting such news without due authentication."

Silent Salvation.

Not a drum was heard, nor a cornet note, as the Salvation Army marched to the corner of Yates and Government streets last night. The members were also dumb as clams at high tide. They formed a circle at the corner and played silently. The sudden transition from the noisy street show to the Quaker style was appreciated by the citizens. After remaining on the streets for fifteen minutes the silent army marched off to engage in knee drills at their barracks. The hackmen and citizens generally appreciated the quiet and very orderly meeting.

Death of Thos. Bradley.

At Nanaimo, at half-past ten o'clock last night, Thos. Bradley, of the customs service, expired from a complication of liver disease, the actual nature of which it is impossible to determine until a post mortem is made. Deceased was a native of Hadfield, England, a prominent member of the Forresters Lodge and the United Order of Workmen and for some time held the post of foreman of the Nanaimo Volunteer Fire Brigade. He was a man very widely respected and liked and will be deeply regretted by all who knew him. He leaves a wife and two boys, having but lately lost a baby girl.

Grass Fires.

Three small boys, residing on Pembroke street, set fire to the grass in a field at the corner of Princess avenue and Blanchard street on Thursday afternoon. Mr. T. B. Hall called the central hall by telephone and the hose reel was sent out with a number of men. The large field was blazing in several places and a stream of water was turned on from a hydrant. This morning the fire department received another call for the same place. The firemen in the central station went out again and used buckets of water to quench the fire. The boys setting the grass on fire are known to the authorities and should be arrested.

What Makes a Good Paper?

The issue of this week's WEEKLY TIMES is a very fine number, containing an unusually good assortment of news items and terse, well-written articles on the questions of the day. Without egotism it may be said the WEEKLY TIMES is not exceeded anywhere in the quality of its articles and correspondence, and in no paper will be found writers of greater ability and facility of expression than those who contribute this week. The news columns contain all important news transpiring during the week, with that prominence to events in its own country to which it is entitled. That is what makes the paper. Neither are the efforts of the publishers unappreciated. The WEEKLY TIMES is a rapidly growing concern.

SPORTING NOTES.

Perrie and the Jap—Cricket—A Fast Runner—Watson and McIntyre.

THE AMERICAN CRICKETERS.

The American cricketers played yesterday with the Gentlemen of Kent. The Philadelphia team scored 177 in the first innings. Kent made 89, with five wickets down when stumps were drawn.

A FAST SPRINTER.

George Hartlett, of Stamford, Conn., says that he will bet $500 that he can produce a man that will run from a standing start 100 yards in 9¼ seconds. Opinions seem to be in this city that if there is a man who can do 9½ seconds fair, for that distance, that much more than $500 could be made by simply bringing the man here and charging fifty cents admission to see him run. There has been so much talk over these phenomenons, who can knock 10 seconds endways for 100 yards, that the public are just in the mood to see one of them materialize.

HALF MILE RACE.

The half mile race between Tom Watson and Pete McIntyre is creating considerable interest in sporting circles. The runners are practicing on Beacon Hill for the contest, which will take place in the Driving Park at 5 o'clock p. m., on Saturday, August 10th. The race will be finished inside of 2 minutes and 6 seconds. Betting is even.

LACROSSE MATCH.

The lacrosse teams will line up as follows to-morrow afternoon, at 3 p. m. on Beacon Hill. The colors are, Victoria, blue and white stripe; Vancouver, dark blue:

BASEBALL AT NANAIMO.

Next Sunday the Nanaimo baseball club will go to Gabriola Island to play a game of baseball with the players on that island.

The Nanaimo boys are practising hard for their forthcoming match with the Wellington team for $100 a side, and are confident they will again leave the diamond and victors.

SPEEDY TRIALS.

(Before His Lordship Sir M. B. Begbie, C. J.)

John McCluskey asked to be tried under the Speedy Trials Act on a charge of stealing a gun belonging to Isaac Bechtel. Remanded until Wednesday next at 2 o'clock.

Samuel Pearce asked for release on bail.

His Lordship asked whether the defendant would elect to be tried by a jury or under the Speedy Trials Act.

Mr. Charles Wilson, for the defense, said the prisoner elected to be tried by a jury. The learned counsel asked that Pearce be allowed out on bail.

His Lordship could find the depositions in only one case and said he wished to treat the officials of the police court with every respect but they appear to have found a man who can neither read or write.

The depositions in the first charge against Pearce were placed before His Lordship. In the other two cases no depositions were handed in by the municipal authorities.

Mr. Irving, deputy attorney-general, said it would be necessary to remand the application.

Pearce was accordingly remanded back to gaol until 2 o'clock on Wednesday afternoon.

Fell into a Well.

Wednesday afternoon, says the Free Press, Alice, the seven year old daughter of Mr. Thomas, working at the North Field mine of the New Vancouver Coal Company met with a rather severe accident under the following peculiar circumstances: Near the houses is a well about 30 feet deep, with a railing on top. The water is drawn up by means of a windlass and bucket. It is thought that the bucket was standing close to the top, about half full of water, and that the little girl attempted to raise the bucket, but the weight being too much, it overbalanced the girl who fell into the well. Fortunately she was not stunned in the fall, and caught hold of an iron rod which is fastened in the well, and thus saved herself from drowning. Several men happened to be coming home at the time, and noticing the windlass revolving with great velocity, went to ascertain the cause. Imagine their surprise to see the child at the bottom of the well. It was only a matter of a few minutes before the child was rescued from her perilous position and taken home. Dr. Eberts, the Wellington Colliery surgeon was sent for and quickly arrived, he found that child had a collar bone broken, and a rather severe cut over the eye. The injuries were attended to and the child is progressing favorably.

THE BRITISH COLUMBIA FIRE INSURANCE COMPANY.

TAKES RISKS ON THE CASH OR MUTUAL PLANS.

As this is a Home Company, organised by British Columbians for the two-fold purpose of giving cheap insurance and keeping the money in this Province, it commends itself to the support of every insurer desiring the prosperity of this country.

In Ontario, the system of insurance, which is similar to that adopted by this Company, has been in highly successful operation for the past fifty years, and it has proved to be a great advantage to every insurer in it, by reducing the cost of insurance, and it is estimated that now three-fourths of the insurance effected in Ontario is carried by mutual companies.
